

Ash Keating / Museum Langmatt, Baden / Vernissage

By Enrico on 21. August 2023

The Australian artist Ash Keating (born in 1980 in Melbourne) has made an international name for himself with spectacular paintings of entire buildings and huge walls. As a child, he flew with his grandmother in a small plane over the endless scenic expanse of Australia. The intense colors between sky and earth have left a lasting impression on him.

The Museum Langmatt in Baden (Switzerland) invited Ash Keating to use one of its buildings as canvas. In a public, performative action shortly before the opening of the city festival "Badenfahrt", Ash Keating has transformed the caretaker's house in the Langmatt park into a huge three-dimensional painting. In the last months of its existence, the rather inconspicuous Haus Germann surprises the visitors with unexpected colorfulness before it must make way for the construction of a glass, multifunctional pavilion. Ash Keating's exhibition at Museum Langmatt is complemented by new paintings in the park and in the museum rooms, providing a differentiated insight into the artist's work.

Ash Keating. Solo exhibition at Museum Langmatt, Baden (Switzerland). Vernissage, August 19, 2023.
